WILD JUSTICE

By LLOYD OSBOURNE

Author of "Baby Bullet." Illustrated. 12*mo. Ornamental Cloth,* $1.50

These stories have all the dreamy, delicious, restful feeling of the most delightful climate of the world. In reading them one wonders why so fair and pleasant a land has been given over for so many years to rough sailors and adventurers. The action of the tales, which goes on with the swift grotesqueness of opéra-bouffe, is relieved by the eternal elements of humor which enter into every transaction in that land where it is well-nigh impossible to take life seriously.

THE HEALERS

By MAARTEN MAARTENS

Author of "Dorothea," "God's Fool," etc. 12*mo. Ornamental Cloth,* $1.50

This is a wonderfully clever, human, humorous satire on the pretensions of modern medical experts. From old Professor Lisse, with his famous semicolon bacillus, to the last character introduced, every one in the book believes himself either afflicted with an incurable disease or on the eve of the discovery of a wonderful cure. There is plenty of love interest and good character-drawing.

A Trio of Popular New Novels

Second Printing of

On the Field of Glory

By HENRYK SIENKIEWICZ

THE NEW YORK GLOBE says:

"In this day of much mediocrity in fiction it is like the sudden lifting of the fog and a burst of beautiful sunshine to read a new story by Henryk Sienkiewicz.

"It is in unfolding the love romance that the poetic quality of the author rises supreme, with the result of many pages of rare and beautiful prose.

"Romantic, dramatic, poetic, and intensely human by turn, 'On the Field of Glory' is a masterly work by a masterly writer."

Third Printing of

A Maker of History

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

LIFE says:

"The most daring and the most consistently sustained of his many stories, and is heartily recommended to seekers for exciting reading."

Third Printing of

The Sage Brush Parson

By A. B. WARD

THE NEW YORK SUN says:

"An exceptionally readable and effective story. There is more strong and good dramatic substance to it than to any story that we have read in a long while."

$1.50 Each

LITTLE, BROWN & CO., PUBLISHERS, BOSTON

"Here is Barbara Winslow, coquettish and fickle, light-hearted and gay, but daring in the face of danger, and true as steel."

"The most careful and searching examination ever published of the effects of poverty upon children, by a trained school investigator of wide experience. Finally Mr. Spargo writes of remedial measures, and endeavors to outline a constructive policy."

Cloth, xvii+357 pages, with 32 full-page illustrations, $1.50 net (postage 13 cts.)

THE NOTABLE NEW NOVEL JUST READY

Mr. Eden Phillpotts's New Novel The Portreeve

By the Author of "The Secret Woman," "Children of the Mist," etc. Cloth, $1.50.

Each new book by Mr. Phillpotts confirms the judgments of the critics who find his works among "the greatest novels of the decade . . . close knit, full of human nature, throbbing with passion, alive with thought and action." (Record-Herald, Chicago); showing "a delicacy, an understanding, and a strength which mark the author for the highest rank." (London Athenaeum).

OTHER RECENT BOOKS OF EXCEPTIONAL IMPORTANCE

Volume I. of Dr. Henry C. Lea's Great Work
A History of the Inquisition of Spain

"The subject is an interesting one, and we know of no other English book which throws so much light upon it. . . . It should be understood that this book is the outcome of independent, first hand investigation of the materials stored in the immense Spanish archives."—M. W. H. in the Sunday Sun, N. Y.

This important work is complete in MS. and its publication is proceeding as rapidly as it can be put through the press. It will be complete in four volumes. Volume I, just ready, is in 620 8vo pages, cloth price $2.50 net (postage 22 cts.)

Mr. Winston Churchill's Life of Lord Randolph Churchill

In two octavo volumes, with portraits, etc., $9.00 net.

To the personal and political history of the last generation in the United Kingdom and the British Empire these handsome volumes are an indispensable contribution."—New York Tribune.

"Here is a book which is certainly among the two or three most exciting political biographies in the language."—London Times Literary Supplement.

Salve Venetia! Gleanings from History

By Mr. F. MARION CRAWFORD. Illustrated by JOSEPH PENNELL.

Second edition. Two volumes in a box, crown 8vo, $5.00 net. Carriage extra.

"It creates the atmosphere and ineffable charm of Venice better than any book I have ever read." —E. L. SHUMAN, Chicago Record-Herald.

Pre-Raphaelitism and the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood

By WILLIAM HOLMAN HUNT, author of "The Life of Williamson," etc.

Two volumes. Richly illustrated. $10.00 net. Carriage extra.

"At last there is set before the world the book which has been none too patiently waited for for many years past, and an absorbing, interesting, and valuable book it is, fluently and admirably written and on its lighter side vastly entertaining. . . . Likely to survive as long as English art is treasured and studied."—Daily Graphic, London.

Mr. B. L. Putnam-Weale's The Re-Shaping of the Far East

By the author of "Manchu and Muscovite."

Illustrated from fine photographs. Two volumes, $6.00 net.

"It is emphatically a work without which the library of the student of the Far Eastern question will be incomplete."—Daily Telegraph, London.

Mr. Henry George, Jr.'s The Menace of Privilege

Cloth, $1.50 net (postage 13 cts.)

A STUDY OF THE DANGERS TO THE REPUBLIC FROM THE EXISTENCE OF A FAVORED CLASS.

"Mr. George has given us a book of first rate interest and importance. It is written forcefully and brilliantly . . . as a picture of present-day conditions it is a remarkable piece of description and analysis. . . . Mr. George, in a word, is neither a Socialist nor an Anarchist, but a true Jeffersonian Republican, thoroughly believing in the rightfulness of both private property and public property, and, above all, in individual enterprise."—Professor FRANKLIN GIDDINGS, of Columbia University, in The N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

Mrs. Saint Maur's A Self-Supporting Home Illustrated, cloth, $1.75 net.

"Is really valuable by reason of definite practical information covering a wide range of topics."—The Nation.

"For people who would like to do just as the author and her family did, here is the book of books. Shaking from their feet the dust of a $25-a-month city flat, they went forth into the country, to live a new and more healthful life and incidentally to make it pay. . . . Just how it was done, what it cost and how well it paid is told step by step."—Country Life in America.

NOTES IN SEASON.

R. F. FENNO & Co., 18 East Seventeenth Street, in connection with the Franklin Printing and Engraving Co., of Toledo, O., publish that interesting book, "Boyville," by John E. Gunckel, president of the National Newsboys' Association.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly a new edition of A. C. Buell's "Paul Jones: Founder of the American Navy," to which will be added an account, by General Horace Porter, of his search and final discovery of the body of Paul Jones.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready a collection of stories by Lloyd Osbourne, entitled "Wild Justice;" also, "The Healers," a satire on the pretensions of modern medical experts, by Maarten Maartens, both of which have already been fully described by us.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week the latest book by Carl Joubert entitled "The Fall of Tsardom," describing the latest phases of the process of disintegration which has driven the Russian people to seek relief from Tsardom in constitutional reform. They also publish Joubert's other successful books, "Russia As It Really Is," now in its seventh edition, and "The Truth About the Tsar." They also announce "Adventures of a Supercargo," by Louis Becke, and a highly exciting and interesting story by a new writer, John Reed Scott, "The Colonel of the Red Hussars," for which the publishers predict great popularity.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on the 23d inst. "How to Buy Life Insurance," by "Q. P.;" "The Lady and the Ladder," by Harrison Garfield Rhodes; and "Recollections of Thirteen Presidents," by John S. Wise. Publication of Upton Sinclair's novel, "The Jungle," has been delayed until February 26. On March 3 they will bring out "Curayl," by Una L. Silberrad; "Letters and Recollections of George Washington;" "The International Cook Book," by Alexander Filippini; "Man, the Social Creator," by Henry D. Lloyd; and "Under the Arch," by Lady Henry Somerset. Later in March they will publish a new book by Henry A. Shute, the author of "The Real Diary of a Real Boy," entitled "A Few Neighbors," a quiet record of a move from one quarter of the village to another and what followed. The description of the comical happenings, and of the neighbors, are said to be filled with homely humor that has something of the quality of Artemus Ward's.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish next week "A Motor Car Divorce," by Louise Closser Hale, a delightful story of a tour through Europe, for which the author's husband, Walter Hale, has made thirty-six drawings—ten of them in colors—of such towns and scenes on their journey as have never been referred to in other automobile stories; "A Lame Dog's Diary," by S. Macnaughton, the hero of which is not a dog at all, but a soldier who at Magersfontein was shot in the legs, and who, while recovering from his injuries, follows the example of a bewitching young widow and keeps a diary—whereon hangs the tale; "The Hill," by Horace A. Vachell, already described by us; a new book by James Schouler, author of a capital "History of the United States," entitled "Americans of 1776," an original study of life and manners, social, industrial and political for the Revolutionary period; also, "The Art of Keeping Well," a useful manual for the home, by Dr. Cordelia A. Greene, one of our really great pioneer women physicians, with a biographical sketch of Dr. Greene by Miss Elizabeth Gordon.

Insurance: a series of papers on life, fire, marine, accident and liability insurance read before the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania during the academic year, 1904-05. Phil., American Academy of Political and Social Science, 1905. 6+404 p. sq. O. (Amer. Acad. Pol. and Soc. Sci. ser.) cl., $1.25.
These lectures, carefully revised and in some instances rewritten by the authors, aim to present clearly and succinctly the most important facts and problems of the insurance business as viewed by those who have charge of the actual management of insurance companies, or who are otherwise intimately connected with the business. They also aim to afford a brief and thorough treatment of the importance and nature of the leading forms of insurance, and the principles and methods upon which the insurance business is based and conducted. 15 lectures are devoted to life, 4 to fire, 2 to marine, and 2 to accident and liability insurance. Appendix of policy forms.

Insurance in foreign countries. Wash., D. C., [U. S. Office Superintendent of Documents,] 1905. c. 253 p. 8°, (Special consular reports.) pap., 15 c.

Jenkins, C: Francis. Guide book to historic Germantown. [Germantown, Pa., Site and Relic Society, 1906.] 12°, cl., 50 c.

Jones, H: Arthur. Michael and his lost angel: a play in five acts. N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. c. '95. 22+107 p. D. cl., 75 c.

This play was produced at the Lyceum Theatre, London, on the 15th of January, 1896. The leading character, the Rev. Michael Feversham, is a cold, austere, scholarly man, stern in the pursuit of his duty. He exacts a public confession in his church from a young girl, the daughter of his secretary, who has been ruined by a scoundrel. When temptation assails himself, however, he falls, and in this way learns to be more merciful. The play deals with his repentance, the end being a tragedy.

Labiche, Eugène Marie and Martin, Edouard. La poudre aux yeux; with introd. notes and vocabulary by V: E. François. N. Y., American Book Co., [1906. F6.] c. '05. 111 p. por. S. cl., 30 c.

Lamb, C: Essays of Elia. 1st ser.; ed., with introd. and notes, by G: Armstrong Wauchope. Bost., Ginn, [1905.] c. 26+302 p. por. S. (Standard English classics.) cl., 40 c.

A larger volume of the essays of Charles Lamb was issued from the Athenæum Press by the present editor in February, 1904. Since then the "Essays of Elia" (first series) having been included in the college entrance requirements, this edition has been prepared with special reference to the needs of our secondary schools. Although much of the matter of the earlier and fuller work has been used, this book is in many respects a new one. It contains thirty of the most popular essays.

Liljencrantz, Ottilie Adaline. Randvar the songsmith: a romance of Norumbega. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [F.] c. 9+313 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

"She was a prince's child," he "but a viking wild," whose romance Longfellow traced in "The skeleton in armor." The scene like that of the poem is the ancient city of Norumbega, in the time of the fabled Norse occupation of America. Stirring fact and mystic legend are entwined, there being a great clash of arms and much love making. The were-wolf myth is brought into the story with dramatic effect.

Lindsley, Van Sinderen. Rate regulation of gas and electric lighting. N. Y., Banks Law Pub. Co., 1906. c. 4+165 p. O. cl., $1.50.

A compact handbook, containing the principles and authorities governing rate regulation of public utilities, which will prove useful to all interested in the question of the rate regulation of public service corporations, which is now being brought so prominently before this country. A reference to the statutes of the several states and a table of decided cases are annexed.

Low, C: Porter. Some recollections by Captain Charles Porter Low, commanding the clipper ships "Houqua," "Jacob Bell," "Samuel Russell," and "N. B. Palmer," in the China trade, 1847-1873. Bost., G: H. Ellis Co., 1905. c. 179 p. pls., pors. 8°, cl., $2.

Lyman, Olin Linus. Micky. Bost., R: G. Badger, 1905. c. 241 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Story of newspaper life in a large city, centering in the meteoric career of a young Irish-American possessing unusual journalistic ability but cursed with the inherited thirst for liquor. Micky is fortunate enough to get on the scent of a political scandal involving the Democratic nominee for mayor. He runs it to earth, and then all but loses his game through his fatal weakness, which intervenes at the critical moment.

Marshall, W. Vickroy. Competition. Berlin, Pa., Record Publishing Co., [1905.] c. 8+93 p. front. D. cl., 50 c.

Author is editor of Berlin Record, Berlin, Pa. The central thought is: 1, That the natural law of competition is the true and only medium in which success may be achieved in the various departments of industrial life. The theme includes within its scope the following propositions: 1, That the ills which afflict our industrial and commercial life are attributable to the unnatural distribution of earnings growing out of undue concentration of capital and monopoly. 2, That the result is periodic "overproduction" and "hard times." 3, That the remedy is such a remodeling of the taxing system as will prevent undue concentration of industrial interests and the fostering of monopoly.

Moore, G: The lake. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. [F.] c. 2+309 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The scene of this novel is Ireland. The interest is centered in two people—Father Oliver Gogarty, an Irishman in charge of a parish in the west of Ireland, and Rose Leicester, his organist and schoolmistress. An error on the girl's part drives her out of the parish to London, where after some vicissitudes, she becomes the secretary of a literary man and travels with him and his daughter to Germany and Italy to study Wagner and the Italian composers. The priest begins a correspondence with her, chiefly of good advice, and finds in a little while that he is in love. This realization changes his whole life, and though he never expects to see Rose again, he gives up his life's work and starts for New York, letting it appear he has been drowned in the lake.

Orr, Ja., D.D. The problem of the Old Testament considered with reference to recent criticism: the Bross prize, 1905. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. 50+562 p. O. (Bross lib.) cl., *$1.50 net.

The author, who is a professor in the United Free Church College, Glasgow, examines the old Testament in its relation to Higher Criticism, showing whereas much light has been thrown on the structure and meaning of the Scriptures by the critics of the last thirty years, that if carried out to its logical issues, Higher Criticism must "prove subversive to our Christian faith, and of such belief in, and use of, the Bible as alone can meet the needs of the living church." Written for the English public and as much as possible shorn of technicalities. This book was awarded the Bross Prize of $6000 at Lake Forest UUniversity in 1905, the sum being derived from the fund left by the late William Bross of Chicago, the income of which was to foster the production of books or treatises "on the connection, relation and mutual bearing of any practical science, or history of our race, or the facts in any department of knowledge, with and upon the Christian Religion."

Phillpotts, Eden. The portreeve. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. [Ja.] c. 3+452 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The love story of Dodd Wolferstan, who was portreeve or chief magistrate in the maritime village of Bridgetowe. The position of portreeve, while considered a great honor in the little English village of Devon, had no salary and little work attached to it. It was a title that had descended from Saxon days. It made the man who bore it, however, a person whom everybody knew. Dodd Wolferstan was loved by two women; one he loved dearly and wanted to marry; the other, enraged and jealous at being slighted, resorted to most unscrupulous methods to separate the lovers. She is successful and Dodd's intended wife casts him off and marries another man. The rest of the story is unexpected, with a tragical ending. Full of local color.

Proctor, Mary. Giant sun and his family. Bost., Silver, Burdett & Co., [1906.] c. 8+167 p. il. D. cl., 50 c.

While primarily intended for supplementary reading for boys and girls in the higher grades, the book can be used as a text-book in the field of astronomy which it covers. Miss Proctor for the past ten years has been lecturing on this subject before schools and in connection with the evening lecture course conducted by the New York City Department of Education. In a manner very attractive to young readers she tells of the wondrous sun-star, and of three eclipses of the sun she has observed herself.

Quinn, P. E. The art reader; prepared for supplementary reading in public and private

For notice of purpose of work see P. W. "Weekly Record," Nov. 18, 1905 [1764]. This second volume discusses the Triple and Dual alliances, the Central Asian question, the Afghan and Turkoman campaigns, Britain in Egypt, Gordon and the Sudan, the partition of Africa, Congo Free State, and Russia in the Far East, while three appendices contain matter relating to Bosnia in 1875, and to Skobeleff's plan for the invasion of India; and to his interview with Marvin.

Saleeby, Caleb Williams, M.D. Evolution the master-key: a discussion of the principles of evolution as illustrated in atoms, stars, organic species, mind, society and morals. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [F.] c. '05. 9+364 p. O. cl., $2 net.

In his introductory the author says: "My object is not to reduce the many and ponderous volumes of the synthetic philosophy to brief and popular form. . . . Rather do I write in the attempt to justify my conviction that the philosophy of universal and ordered change is far more easily demonstrable today than ever before. . . . Since 'First principles' was written new sciences—such as the comparative study of religions, comparative mythology, comparative ethics, comparative psychology, astro-physics, and physical chemistry—have come into being, each of which deals, in effect, with evolution in one or another sphere. My purpose, then, is to demonstrate the truth of the philosophy of evolution or change in the light of human knowledge in the first lustrum of the twentieth century." By the author of "The cycle of life."

The fifth and final volume of one of the most important recent works on philosophy by an American, the author being assistant professor of philosophy in Harvard University. The different volumes consider each so different an aspect of the general subject—individual, social, religious, artistic, scientific—that they may very well be considered separate works. The present work is devoted to a consideration of "Reason in science" in chapters entitled: Types and aims of science; History: Mechanism; Hesitations in method; Psychology, The nature of intent; Dialectic; Prerational morality; Rational ethics; Post-rational morality; The validity of science.

Schwartz, Joost Marius Willem Van der Poorten, ["Maarten Maartens," pseud.] The healers. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. [Mr.] c. 4+419 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

In Leyden, Holland, the eminent Professor Lisse discovered the "semicolon" bacillus which by means of injection in the brain was to cure all diseases. He ranked next to Pasteur who also appears. Vivisection being necessary to prove his theories, his children and his wife, a poetess, dreaded his studies. The intricate plot brings out the various theories of healing: hypnotism, mental healing, massage, telepathy, electricity, etc. One character argues that as long as true scientists refuse to study the quackeries and superstitions that are influencing modern mental and physical sufferers the theories are not refuted. Insanity and idiocy are also depicted. Fine women characters are attractions of the realistic story.

An effort to present the Bible ideal, spiritual and visible, of the Church of Christ; to cut away from the various forms of church doctrine held to-day both Catholic and sectarian mistakes; in order that we may return to the ideal church founded by Christ and foretold by the prophets. A plea for Christian unity.

Sturgis, Howard Overing. All that was possible: being the record of a summer in the life of a Mrs. Sibyl Crofts, comedian. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. 3+312 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

Analytic study of a woman's mind when brought face to face with an ennobling love. Gifted, beautiful and uncontrolled by moral principle, Sibyl Crofts, after a liaison of five years with an English nobleman, flees to Wales, hoping to find courage in solitude to face a new life. There she is brought in contact with a high-minded man who loves her against his will; and only when she perceives the moral deterioration wrought in the man through his love for her does Sibyl realize the hopelessness and piteousness of her position and accept its consequences.

Adrian Bassett after his university life enters his father's business. He learns through this experience how one man accumulates great wealth while his employees scarcely earn enough to keep the wolf from the door. He refuses to become his father's partner unless certain changes are made. His father casts him out doors and makes a new will. Adrian not only loses wealth but a lovely bride and goes out into the London world to earn a living and test his theories. He suffers all degrees of poverty, coming very near to starvation In the end he becomes secretary to a great man, and is reconciled with his father, but always refuses to accept his money. He remains the leader of a group of young men who aim to reform the world. They all emigrate together to Brothersland, in British East Africa, where they form the Brotherhood of the Golden Rule.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 17, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE FUTURE OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLING.*

As to the future of the commercial traveller we doubt whether the present generation need trouble themselves greatly over their probable future. The system of doing business through a representative on the road has been and is still subject to the law of evolution and the strain of competition. Yet every step has been in the direction of improving not only the condition of the traveller, but in creating a higher class of representative than his predecessors. In all great changes some good in the old will be destroyed in making way for the new and greater benefit. Applying this to the subject in hand, we have no misgivings as to the future of the commercial traveller, for whenever a greater degree of intelligence is necessary a higher being is always evolved to carry on the work. The present-day traveller is in many respects by the aforenamed law a vastly superior man, and as the years roll on he will have still to submit to the inevitable, and move on, or he will be moved with the weak "to the wall," for every leading position in all large mercantile houses will require a closer and more intense application of all the faculties; the hours may be shorter, but the moments will be keener and more anxious; the business problems will be much more complex for the middle man and the merchant. It will therefore require a much more subtle mind and dexterous hand to bring about results satisfactory to both employers and employees. To no class of business men does this apply with greater force than to the commercial traveller, the great pioneer of all large trading operations, for upon his general intelligence and acumen, upon his power of conception and intrepidity of execution, very much depends. Hence, the men who have not grown and advanced with the times will be left a long way behind in the race, and those only will be able to retain their positions who can properly estimate and quickly adapt themselves to the ever-advancing and rapidly-changing circumstances, which will continue to influence and govern the entire conduct of the twentieth century commerce.

Under these altered conditions we must look to the young, pliable, industrious traveller to make a brilliant future for himself. There is no appointment in a house of business which offers such scope for large ideas and magnificent results, as the future of the travelling man, and we confidently recommend any man with a thorough knowledge of his business to select this work, with this proviso, that if he have all the gifts, all the qualifications of all the best men who have ever travelled combined, and lack that intense application, that determination to work year in and year out, he lacks the one thing needful above all others.

* Continuation of the series of "The Profession of Bookselling." A list of authorities quoted will be given on conclusion.

WORK ON LIPPINCOTT'S DICTIONARY SUSPENDED.

AFTER almost fifteen years' preliminary work on a dictionary of the English language projected to occupy a place about midway between Webster's and the Century dictionaries, J. Bertram Lippincott, of the J. B. Lippincott Company, has decided to suspend work upon it for the present, with an ultimate view to disposing of the book, so far as it has progressed, to another publisher. If, however, such disposition of it on equitable terms is not made, he may himself resume the project and continue it to completion, although this is doubtful.

The reason for this step, as given by Mr. Lippincott, is the excessive strain upon his health caused by the financing and supervision of the work. In suspending it he has yielded to the advice of his relatives, friends and business associates, but has done so with great reluctance and only after much persuasion.

The manuscript of the dictionary is already prepared in the rough down to the end of the alphabet. The matter from "A" to and inclusive of the word "esteem" has been put in type, and more of it is ready for the printer to a point about two-thirds through the list of words beginning with the letter F. Elec-trotype page proofs for all of the first volume and for one-half of the second volume have been taken. It is estimated that it will take four or five years more to complete the dictionary. Something like $400,000 has been expended upon it, and $250,000 more will be required before it can be delivered entire to purchasers. Nothing has been done to obtain subscribers, and no prospectus even has been issued. First undertaken in 1892 by the firm of J. B. Lippincott & Co., with Professor Charles Payson Gurley Scott as editor-in-chief, it was subsequently taken over by Mr. Lippincott as his personal enterprise.

PUBLISHERS' BOWLING TOURNAMENTS.

The representatives of the Oxford University Press, the American Book Company and Doubleday, Page & Co. opened the bowling tournament of the season at the Fair Bowling Alleys, 122 East Fourteenth Street, New York City, on the evening of February 6. A large and enthusiastic gathering of the clans was present to encourage and cheer their champions. This was followed by games on the evenings of February 9, 13 and 16 by teams from the Oxford University Press, G. P. Putnam's Sons, Ginn & Co., Doubleday, Page & Co., and the American Book Company. The following is the schedule of games still to be played, the game on March 9 closing the series:

Tuesday, February 20—Ginn & Company, G. P. Putnam's Sons, The American Book Company.

Friday, February 23—Doubleday, Page & Co., G. P. Putnam's Sons, Oxford University Press.

Tuesday, February 27—Ginn & Company, Doubleday, Page & Co., The American Book Company.

Friday, March 2—G. P. Putnam's Sons, The American Book Company, Oxford University Press.

Tuesday, March 6—Ginn & Company, Doubleday, Page & Co., G. P. Putnam's Sons.

Friday, March 9—The American Book Company, Ginn & Company, Oxford University Press.

The team prizes are $10 for the first prize and $4 for the second prize. Five dollars each will be awarded for the highest individual score and for the highest individual average. Games are called at eight o'clock, sharp. The trade is cordially invited to be present.

POPULAR ENGLISH BOOKS.

Among the "best sellers" in England during January, The Book Monthly notes the following:

Hugo, by Arnold Bennett.
The House of Riddles, by Dorothea Gerard.
The Spoilers, by Edwin Pugh.
A Vendetta in Vanity Fair, by Esther Miller.
Yolande, by Charles Major.
Lord Randolph Churchill, by Winston Spencer Churchill.
The Fourth Party, by Harold G. Gorst.
The Africander Land, by A. R. Colquhoun.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE ANNUAL DINNER

The Booksellers' League gave its annual dinner on the evening of February 14 at the Aldine Association. Owing to the wretched weather the attendance was not quite so large as is usual on this occasion; nevertheless about one hundred members of the League and their guests comfortably filled the dining room and enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

After the coffee had been served the president of the League, F. D. Lacy, in a brief address of welcome introduced as the first speaker George Cary Eggleston, who, after a witty introduction, discussed seriously the relation of what he called "the epidemic of free libraries" to the profession of authorship, criticising the Carnegie gifts as detrimental to the larger sale of books and presenting a situation which, he claimed, called for serious thought on the part of publishers.

The second speaker of the evening, Upton Sinclair, gave an earnest and impressive account of his investigation of the activities of the beef "trust" in Chicago, and of how he gathered material for his forthcoming book, "The Jungle," to be published at once by Doubleday, Page & Co.

The Rev. Madison C. Peters brought a very interesting evening to a close by suggestive remarks on "How to Get There," illustrating his talk with many happy illustrations and some good stories.

Gold League buttons were presented to Charles A. Burkhardt, J. B. Pratt and S. Edgar Briggs, each having added five new members to the League during the past three months.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM A. WILLIAMSON.

William A. Williamson, founder and president of the Williamson Law Book Company, died in Rochester, N. Y., on February 3. Mr. Williamson was born in Rochester, September 16, 1846. After graduating from the Rochester Free Academy, in 1863, he became a clerk in D. M. Dewey's Arcade Book Store, where he remained until 1870. He then started in business for himself with W. W. Wadsworth, the firm two years later becoming William A. Williamson & Co. In 1874 the firm became Williamson & Higbie, which continued for fifteen years. In 1885, their store in Powers Block having become too small for their rapidly increasing business, they took the whole building at 9 and 11 Exchange Street. In May, 1889, Mr. Higbie sold out his interest to Mr. Williamson, who then organized and incorporated the Williamson Law Book Company.

On the 5th inst. the following representatives of the book, stationery and paper trades met at the store of Scrantom, Wetmore & Co.: E. Darrow, L. G. Wetmore, A. C. Walker, J. T. Gorsline, Alfred Jackson, Vorberg Bros., W. C. Edwards, W. B. Palliser, I. Lazarius, John F. White, R. W. Swinburne,

Frank J. Stupp, G. P. Humphrey and W. H. Briggs. Mr. Darrow was called to the chair and the following resolutions, prepared by George P. Humphrey, A. C. Walker and John F. White, were adopted:

In the death of Mr. William A. Williamson, we, the members of the Book and Stationery trade of Rochester, desire to place on record our deep sense of loss in a fellow member, who for more than a generation of time has moved among us.

His happy and cheerful disposition made him friends on every side, while his earnest and capable attention to the care and building up of a successful business has made his name known throughout the country.

We deeply deplore our loss and extend our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family.

CHARLES A. RAY, for eighteen years in the employ of Thomas Nelson & Sons, died suddenly in East Orange, N. J., on Sunday evening, February 11. Mr. Ray was born in East Orange, January 31, 1872, and when he left school in 1888 obtained a position as errand boy with Thomas Nelson & Sons. In time he became city salesman, and last year he took up the large towns in the West, in which undertaking he was quite successful. Mr. Ray was a member of the Royal Arcanum and of the East Orange Brotherhood of Elks. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

PAUL LAURENCE DUNBAR, the negro poet, died at Dayton, Ohio, on February 9, aged thirty-four, having been born at Dunbar, Montgomery County, Ohio, June 27, 1872. He was educated in the public schools of Dayton and by diligent private study made up for the loss of a college education. Soon after leaving school he got a place as an elevator boy in a public building, a place he kept long after he made a reputation as writer, for despite the attention his literary works had attracted, his books had yielded him no profit. His first two volumes, "The Oak and Ivy" and "Majors and Minors," were published by the author, with the assistance of friends, and despite the fact that his reputation then rested chiefly on what these books contained, they did not materially increase his income. So while Mr. Dunbar was acclaimed and commended in different quarters on the strength of his gifts as poet, it was from his labors as an elevator boy that his living came. The first edition of his second book was nearly exhausted when a review by William Dean Howells introduced Mr. Dunbar as "the first black man to feel the life of the negro æsthetically and to express it lyrically." From that time he wrote two books each year up to 1899, except 1897. His most popular collection is entitled "Lyrics of Lowly Places."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

SIR FRANCIS C. BURNAND has resigned the editorship of Punch. He had been associated with that periodical for forty-four years, and had edited it for a quarter of a century. He will be succeeded by Owen Seaman, at present assistant editor. The resignation, which is due to advancing age, was announced by Sir Francis at the Wednesday dinner of Punch's staff.

BUSINESS NOTES.

IOWA CITY, IA.—J. J. Lee, bookseller, has sold out to A. C. Beitsch.

NEW YORK CITY.—At a meeting of the creditors of the United Educational Company, held on the 9th inst. at the office of the referee, William H. Willis, John K. Creevey, the receiver, was elected trustee and his bond fixed at $40,000. The referee thought it advisable to declare a dividend from the money in the trustee's hands so that it might be paid as soon as possible. The referee also requested the attorneys for the trustee to examine all claims filed. The meeting was then adjourned for two weeks, when the examination of the bankrupt will be taken up.

NEW YORK CITY.—Thomas Nelson & Sons are removing their bindery and shipping department to larger and more commodious premises at 109 to 113 South Fifth Street, Brooklyn. When they moved from 33 East Seventeenth Street, nine years ago, they secured two floors in the present building 37 East Eighteenth Street, then three floors, and for the last three years they have occupied four floors, and are now crowded out by their rapidly-increasing business. The new premises in Brooklyn give them double the space, so that they will be able to do more work and carry larger stock than ever before. The offices and salesrooms will remain at 37 East Eighteenth Street, where they will carry stock enough to supply the city trade.

PETERSBURG, VA.—T. S. Beckwith & Co., booksellers, have been incorporated with T. S. Beckwith, president; T. S. Beckwith, Jr., secretary, and M. K. Cary, treasurer.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HINDS, NOBLE & ELDREDGE have just secured control of "The Modern American Speaker," by Edwin DuBois Shurter, having purchased the plates and copyright, with all rights, title and interest in same.

THE Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition awarded to Houghton, Mifflin & Co. a gold medal for their recent volume on "The Liquor Problem," and a silver medal for their quarto subscription edition of Longfellow's Works.

HENRY S. HUTCHINSON, of New Bedford, Mass., sails to-day by the steamer Koenig Albert for Genoa. Mr. Hutchinson expects to be in Leipzig in March, to attend the book fair. He will also pay a visit to the Berlin post-card manufacturers.

A. WESSELS COMPANY will publish at once in their series of popular copyright reprints Thomas Dixon's "The Leopard's Spots," and Frank Norris's "The Pit." Other important titles will be added to this series during the spring. This series is well printed and attractively bound in cloth.

LYMAN BEECHER STOWE has associated himself with the Frederick A. Stokes Company, now settled in their new quarters at 333 Fourth Avenue, and will be at the head of their publicity and mail order work, succeeding Charles C. Stoddard, who has severed his connections with the firm.

PELOUBET'S "Select Notes—famous the world over as a commentary upon the International Sunday School Lessons—has broken its record of recent years, and the publishers, W. A. Wilde Company, announce the publication of another large edition of the 1906 issue.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready in their Heroes of American History series a volume entitled "Columbus, the Discoverer," by Frederick A. Ober, who has spent much time and energy in accumulating historical and personal data about Columbus, and has visited every place associated with his name in Spain and in America, and who in this volume presents a vivid picture of the personality as well as the achievements of the explorer.

W. B. PERKINS, 222 West Twenty-third Street, New York, has just ready two notable addresses by Dr. Minot J. Savage, entitled "Religion: its changing forms and its eternal essence," preached in the Cathedral of St. Peter, Calvin's church, before the International Council, at Geneva, Switzerland, and "The Jew in Christendom." Mr. Perkins will publish for the Easter season another address by Dr. Savage, entitled "Immortality: some reasons for belief."

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. announce a new edition of Frederick Haynes Newell's "Irrigation." Dr. Newell is chief engineer of the United States Reclamation Service, and his account of the reclaiming of the arid Western lands has been accepted as authoritative. He has thoroughly revised his work and added a new chapter to keep pace with the rapid march of development in this field. Numerous new illustrations have also been added to the several hundred in the book.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS has just brought out a work entitled "The Finality of the Christian Religion," by George B. Foster, who considers the question whether Christianity is to be regarded as a movement of merely relative importance, an influence which in time must give place to stronger influence, or whether it is a thing of absolute and final value; also, the first volume of "Ancient Records of Egypt," by James H. Breasted, a source book of Egyptian history, to be completed in four volumes.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY announce for early publication a novel under the title of "The Rose Croix," a historical romance dealing principally with the war to free Texas from the yoke of Mexican rule. The hero, Lieutenant Sylvester, of Cincinnati, tells his own story, and he it is who captured Santa Anna on the field of San Jacinto, thereby putting an end to the strife. Zena Zavala, the daughter of the distinguished Mexican statesman, also plays an important part in the plot, as does that mysterious character who appeared on the battleground, known as the "Little Chevalier."

THE ROBERT APPLETON COMPANY, Union Square, New York, will be ready shortly to publish the first volume of their "Catholic Encyclopædia," work on which was begun over a year ago. The work aims to be a full and trustworthy compendium of the history, constitution and teaching of the Roman Catholic Church, and should prove quite as valuable to non-Catholic writers, editors and men of affairs as to those who profess its teachings. The editor-in-chief is Charles G. Herbermann, LL.D., with the Rev. Edward A. Pace, D.D., as associate, and the Rev. Condé R. Pallen as managing editor.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish in March a new book by Max Pemberton, entitled "My Sword for Lafayette," a dramatic and thrilling story of the adventures of a young American—a friend and companion of the Marquis de Lafayette, who was present at Barren Hill and Yorktown and who returned to France with the Marquis, believing him to be in peril by reason of his principles and practice in Paris. The story will be fully illustrated. They will also publish next month Anthony Trollope's "The Vicar of Bullhampton," the second of the series of the Manor House Novels, of which "Orley Farm" is the first.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce a new book by C. Lewis Hind, a stimulating writer on art matters, to be entitled "Days with Velasquez." The publication of the second volume of the revised and enlarged edition of Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" has been unavoidably delayed, but the Macmillan Company are now able to announce its issue for some time in March. A very large number of the articles have been entirely rewritten, and many absolutely new ones appear. American music and musicians are fully treated. The five large volumes of the edition are illustrated with plates as well as text cuts.

THE PERIODICAL PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION, whose headquarters are at 439 Lafayette Street, New York City, is making a determined effort to apprehend and bring to justice the many fraudulent agents, who are always operating throughout the country. To this end a copy of its first Bulletin of Discharged or Criminal Agents, just issued, offering a reward of $25 for the arrest of those named therein, has been sent to every chief of police in the country. Inasmuch as booksellers and newsdealers are not infrequently the victims of these swindlers we would advise the trade to send for this Bulletin for their own defense as well as for that of their neighbors. Communications on this subject should be addressed to J. M. Cunningham, chairman of the subscription committee.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish on March 1 "Carolina Lee," a new novel by Lilian Bell, who spent several months in the South with her husband, Arthur Hoyt Bogue, while he investigated the commercial possibilities of certain turpentine plantations, and who has turned the knowledge gained to good account in her new book. They will publish later in March a book that ought to appeal to college men, entitled "The Count at Harvard," by Rupert Sargent Holland, a graduate of Harvard and now a lawyer well known in Philadelphia. The book is said to be a composite picture of the author's own classmates. "The Count," nicknamed for the usual reason, because he was so unlike a count, is a typical senior, a boy at heart, who lets himself loose and perpetrates mad jokes on his fellows, but is most correctly blasé in manner to admiring freshmen and such.

A. N. MARQUIS & Co., Chicago, will publish March 1 a poem entitled "The Fading of the Mayflower," by Theodore Tilton, who, thirty-six years ago, when he was editor of the New York Independent, was considered to be "among the six ablest and most potent editors in the United States, and one of the six best platform lecturers in the country." Mr. Tilton's poem is described as "a trumpet call to higher ideals and wiser methods; away from the base and unworthy to the sane and happy. It spares no detail of the picture of gilded degeneracy which has been revealed by recent events; and yet this is no jeremiad of hopeless despondency, but a broad, optimistic, ozone-filled breeze of poetic inspiration, turned upon the miasm of social and financial ooze, which has beslimed the fair fame of our day and generation." Mr. Tilton, since 1870, has been living in Paris, where he is looked upon as the dean of the American literary colony.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly "Saints in Society," by Margaret Baillie-Saunders," the story that won the prize offered by T. Fisher Unwin for the best novel by an author who had never before had a work of fiction published; a translation of Dr. Otto Weininger's work on "Sex and Character," which, in Germany, has gone into its sixth edition; "Greece," by Dr. E. S. Shuckburgh, a new volume in the Story of the Nations series; the fourth and concluding volume of the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix's "History of the Parish of Trinity Church," which brings the account of the earliest of the Episcopal churches of New York City down to the accession of the present rector—Dr. Dix himself; "The Electoral System of the United States," by J. Hampden Dougherty; also, "Everyday Luncheons," by Olive Green, author of "What to Have for Breakfast," the second of The Housemakers series of books on cooking and housekeeping.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish next month, by arrangement with Dent of London, the first instalment of Everyman's Library, a collection of upwards of 1000 uniform volumes, containing the world's best and most permanent literature, edited by Ernest Rhys, who is assisted by Andrew Lang, Arthur Symons, Richard Garnett and others equally well known. On March 1 fifty-three volumes are promised, and these will be followed by fifty more in August. The March instalment will include, among its fiction items by Scott, Lytton, Kingsley, Austen, Dumas, Balzac and Dickens. History will be represented by Macaulay, Carlyle, Motley and others; poetry and drama by Tennyson, Browning, Shelley, and possibly Keats; biography by Boswell, Lockhart and others. Science, oratory, essays, and classical juveniles will be proportionately represented. The size of the volumes will be a small 12mo, each one of which, owing to the thinness of the paper employed, will contain 700 or 800 pages. The binding will be cloth or flexible leather, stamped on the back in gold.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just ready a work entitled "In the March and Borderland of Wales," by A. G. Bradley, a delightful description of those English counties, including the cities of Chester, Shrewsbury, Ludlow, Hereford, Ross and Monmouth, that mark or "march" the borders of Wales, with 150 sketches of the country by William M. Meredith, the son of the famous novelist, George Meredith; "The Spirit of the Pines," the story of a little tragedy enacted amid the fragrance of piney woods and hilltops in New Hampshire, charmingly told by Miss Margaret Morse, daughter of the Hon. Robert M. Morse, one of the most prominent lawyers of Boston; "What is Religion? and Other Student Questions," by Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a collection of five talks to college students on "What is Truth?" "What is Religion?" "The Science of Religion," "The Significance of Prayer," and "Ought a Religious Man to Join a Church?"; "Individuality and Mortality," (the Ingersoll Lecture, 1906,) by Wilhelm Ostwald, Professor of Physical Chemistry in the University of Leipzig, which gives the latest knowledge of facts bearing on the relation between mind and matter, and shows that our relations to one another and to humanity in general are similar in kind though different in degree to the relations which can be demonstrated as existing between matter and energy in its simplest forms; the first volume—"Philosophy and Mathematics"—of "The Proceedings of the International Congress of Arts and Science at St. Louis, September, 1904," to be completed in eight large volumes; also, in the Riverside Literature Series, "Shakespeare's Henry V.," edited by Edward Everett Hale, Jr.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A GENUINE LOVE STORY

"Mr. Benson has shown that he has few superiors in telling an absorbingly interesting story in such a way that he has the reader with him to the end."—New York Globe.

"Worthy of consideration by many standards, as a piece of good descriptive art, an excellent portraiture of people, and a genuine love story."—St. Louis Republic.

"A curiously fascinating study of some aspects of English life, at once oddly real and unreal. The reading of the tale engenders not only admiration but also a strong feeling of personal regard."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"Mr. Benson has written another thriller."—Globe, New York.

"Mr. Benson's new people appeal and so does his new book."—New York World.
